Conditions Bad In Central Illinois

Surplus Problem Much in Evidence, Fulton Man Reports

Emory Thompson, of Fulton, who returned home last week from a trip with his family to Central Illinois and Chicago, reports that conditions in rural Illinois are hard.

"Farmers have plenty of everything except money," he said. "I saw 2,000 farmers outside of St. Louis leave off holding a meeting to wreck a truck and two trailers carrying milk into a milk trust depot. They were hot about something—but in the cities I saw as many as 400 or 500 unemployed men loitering about one public park."

Mr. Thompson, with Mrs. Thompson and their daughter Josephine, visited his parents in Central Illinois, and his brother Judge Floyd E. Thompson in Chicago. They drove from Hope to Mena and Fort Smith, thence to Springfield, Mo., and across Missouri into Illinois. After reaching Fort Smith, he traveled on concrete highway entirely, Mr. Thompson said, and even by this circuitous route through mountain scenery, it is only a two-day drive, he added.

Farmers Prepare For Fall Crops

Planting to Be Started in Arkansas Within Next Two Weeks

LITTLE ROCK.—Preparations for planting of fall crops are being made and actual planting of the crops probably will begin within the next two weeks, T. Roy Reid, assistant director in charge of the Agricultural Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, said Monday.

Most of the garden, food and feed crops have been harvested for the first part of the year, Mr. Reid said, and cotton is continuing to develop with every indication of a good yield. No estimate as to cotton production may be made by government employees at other than the specified intervals for the Department of Agriculture estimates, the next of which is due Tuesday.

Gratification was expressed by Mr. Reid for the whole-hearted co-operation of state agriculturists in the live-at-home programs and the canning campaigns advocated and conducted by the extension forces. More food-stuffs have been grown this year, and a greater percentage of them preserved, than in many years, Mr. Reid said.

Tilman Parks to Speak on Hoop-ee Day Thursday, 10th

Congressman Will Make Address at Farmers' Trading Lot

TO BE BARGAIN DAY

Featured Address Will Be Delivered Here at 2:00 P. M.

Congressman Tilman B. Parks will speak here at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, September 10, as a feature of Hope's Hoop-ee Day program, the Retail Merchants association announced Monday.

Mr. Parks' address will be delivered in the farmers' "swap lot" at Third street and the Louisiana & Arkansas right-of-way, near the Frisco freight depot.

This lot has been reserved by the merchants association as a trading place for farmers who come to Hope from out in the trade territory this Thursday. At the swap lot they will find bargains and customers among their own crowd for every variety of farm and household article.

Hope merchants have launched a fall bargain program featured by a Hoop-ee Day the second Thursday of each month. Special attractions will be found at the stores, with the added inducement of the farmers' own trading lot, band music, and other features.

The acceptance by Congressman Parks of the invitation to speak Thursday on the first of these monthly events was appreciated by the Merchants association. Mr. Parks will attract wide interest because of national economic questions to come before the Senate tomorrow, in which the South and other agricultural sections are deeply interested.

Minister Held For Death of His Son

U. S. Sailor, On Leave, Shot Fatally on Lonely Road in Georgia

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—The Rev. J. N. Williams of Rochelle, Ga., was arrested Sunday by Richmond county officers on a warrant charging him with the murder of his son, Reford Grady Williams, 19, a United States sailor, on a lonely road near here, August 5.

Sheriff N. Gray Whittle of Richmond county said the charge against the minister followed a report to him that the father had obtained leave for his son on the claim that the youth's sister was gravely ill. The sheriff said he learned the sister, a student at the Martha Berry schools, Rome, Ga., was not seriously ill. The minister denied the charge.

Officers said they were told by the minister that he had met his son in Washington, D. C., but that friends of the family said he met him "in the Carolinas." Sheriff Whittle said Mr. Williams borrowed a pistol from a friend in Rochelle for protection on the trip and that bullet wounds in the son's body corresponded to the caliber of the borrowed weapon. The minister, about 45 years old, collected $2,500 life insurance following his son's death, Sheriff Whittle said.

Slayer of Pair Commits Suicide

Milwaukeean and Son Are Killed By Unwelcome Suitor of Daughter

MILWAUKEE.—(AP)—The body of Nicholas Funek, 35, Detroit, was found hanging in a barn here early Sunday, a few hours after he was accused by police of shooting fatally Steven Hirsch, 27, and his son, William, 23, both of Milwaukee, in a quarrel over one of Hirsch's daughters, Rose, 23.

Mrs. Anna Hirsch, 41, mother of Rose, was wounded seriously by two bullets from the slayer's revolver. She was struck in the lung and in the hand.

She told police that Funek met Rose in Detroit three years ago and when Rose returned to Milwaukee several weeks ago because of his unwelcome courtship, he followed her. Hirsch also objected to Funek's suitorship.

The family, returning from a church festival Saturday night heard a commotion at the henhouse of their place on the outskirts of the city and William went to investigate. Almost immediately three shots were heard and he staggered into the house wounded fatally.

The father went to the door with a shotgun but was met on the doorstep by the assailant and mortally shot. Police, searching for the slayer, found his body hanging in a barn about 300 feet from the Hirsch home.

Fight in Brooklyn Causes Panic But Even Innocent Bystanders Escape

The conductor shut off the power and escaped the crossfire. A bullet tore through the top of a passing automobile.

The sedan started away. The gunmen's target, described as about 25, jumped into another car and pursued it, both machines being lost to view in traffic.

2d Cotton Report Released Tuesday

Market Waiting on Government Estimate as of September 1

MEMPHIS.—(U. S. Department Agriculture)—The cotton market during the period August 28th to September 4th witnessed a declining tendency with quotations at the end of the week about 45 points lower than those of August 28.

Demand for spot cotton from both domestic and foreign markets was only fair and in small volumes with not much improvement in inquiries for deferred shipments. The market was said to be in a waiting mood pending the issuance of the government crop report on September 8th at 11 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, which report will estimate the probable 1931 production based on conditions as of September 1.

According to the Weather Bureau temperatures during the week ending September 1st in the cotton belt were mostly seasonable and in most states rainfall was light to only moderate except for local fairly heavy falls in parts of the Mississippi Valley.

Average price middling 7-8 inch as compiled from the quotations of the ten designated spot markets September 4th was 5.99¢, compared with 6.4¢ on August 28th and 10.7¢ on the corresponding day the previous season.

Exports to September 4th this season amounted to about 228,000 bales, compared with about 455,000 bales last year for the like period. Exports continue comparatively heavy to both Japan and China.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange service, world consumption of American cotton for the season 1930-31 amounted to 11,100,000 bales, compared with 13,000,000 in 1929-30 and 15,200,000 and 15,600,000 for the two preceding years.

America During Ice Age Had More Birds Than Now

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—North America had many more kinds of birds at the same time of the ice age than at present, it is reported by Dr. Alexander Wetmore of the Smithsonian institution.

Birds of today have changed little since the ice age, which ended between 20,000 and 30,000 years ago, he says. Crows, storks, ducks, geese, herons, grebes and cormorants are among modern birds that were living then.

Species of birds have been steadily exterminated since ice ages times, Dr. Wetmore explains, and there has been little evolution of species that have survived. Many extinct bird species are not known because their bones were too small to be well preserved as fossils.

The governor of Arkansas, who has states made Monday, Monday, to call the legislature, together to enact relief measures in the wake of action by an extraordinary assembly, is expected in Texas Tuesday.

"The legislature of Louisiana met in extraordinary session and enacted a law to prohibit the planting of cotton during 1932. There is much sentiment among the farmers of Louisiana in favor of a half reduction of cotton acreage. The terms and provisions of legislation to be passed I leave to the wisdom of lawmakers."

Registered voters put in the mail Sunday carried the special session call to the Texas legislature, who, with an empire that produces one-third of America's cotton, and one-fifth of the world supply, hold in their hands the fate of any legislative aid effort for next year's crop.

Mike Clark Talks

About Prosperity

Letter He Wrote Van Buren Paper Is Making Round of State Press

Editor's Note: The following letter addressed originally to the editor of the Van Buren County Democrat is making the rounds of Arkansas newspapers:

Dear Mr. editor: there seems to be so much talk about our hoover prosperity. I believe it is my duty to rite you my views on same and help analyze the situation as far as possible so's we can make up our minds that we geter change our ways of ling and soforth.

I have took my own case for instance, I see my own mistakes and many others have acted likewise. I bought a ford instead of a farm and it wore out but the farm figured on is still o. k. I invested in a radio instead of a cow, and the radio gives static instead of milk.

I am feeding 5 nice hounds which answers to the names of rollo, baby, didd, jake and barnum instead of three pigs. I had our plannier tuned instead of the well cleaned out. I spent all my cash in 1928 used my credidick in 1929 and traded up my future wages on installments in 1930, so hard times ketched me in bad shape.

If I had spent my last $10 for flour and meat instead of gas and oil I would been o. k. I bilt a nice garage last year instead of kivering my barn and I loked in the woods hunting 2 weeks instead of in the pasture fixing it so my mules won't go tout.

but if I am on a cash basis now, I have no cash. I am tide to the end of my rope and the man I am working for is busted over count of nobody wouldn't pay him and the cotton mills is closed down being nobody can't buy anything they make, I had $4 saved up for a rainy day, but it turned dry and I spent same for inner tubes.

mr. editor I tried to make ends meet with a turnip patch but when I got reddy to sell turnips everybody else was selling turnips for nothin and the market was glutted. I am worried plum to the bone and my wife's kin-folks is comin over next tuesday to spend the week and by hature is so sare from being able to pull my fodder. I simply ain't able to have any relief rite or rong if you here of any relief from the government I am willin to be a republican for a few weks if that will help any.

yours trullie,
mike clark rfd.
